Law Enforcement Command Officer Professional Recipients

Thomas Larivee began his career in 2015 as a law enforcement officer and currently serves as the Sergeant of the Criminal Investigations Division at the Lockhart Police Department. With over nine years of law enforcement experience, Thomas has dedicated more than seven years to Lockhart PD. Prior to his law enforcement career, he served four years in the United States Marine Corps and three years in the United States Air Force. Sergeant Larivee also serves as the President of the Lockhart Police & Employees Association, reflecting his leadership and commitment to both his department and community. Through his LECOP training, Sergeant Larivee aims to enhance law enforcement leadership and improve the profession for future officers.

Zack Everett joined the Marine Corps infantry after 9/11, deploying on multiple combat tours before joining the Lockhart Police Department in 2020. In 2024 he was promoted to lieutenant and currently oversees the patrol division, SRO program, and the FTO program.

Lt. Everett received a bachelor's degree from Concordia State University and is currently seeking his Master's in Criminal Justice Leadership and Management from Sam Houston State University.

Lt. Everett states, "The LECOP program is an in-depth leadership journey. After experiencing the caliber and experience of the instructors, this program will be pushed as a requirement for new supervisor training in our department."

AREA TRAININGS

ALERRT

Command and Control - TCOLE
33111 "77
minutes - Moving
Left of Bang"

There is no charge for this training.
It is funded through state and federal grants.

Time: 1 day (8 hours)
Class Size: 700

Prerequisite: First responders, Police, Fire, EMS, Dispatch. In addition to you and your command staff, you are encouraged to share this invite with other decision-makers in your counties who would be involved in leading first responders or school staff during a mass casualty event. Participants are responsible for their own transportation and lodging.

Location:
Gerry Ohlendorf Performing Arts Center
906 Center St.
Lockhart, TX 78644

The Course will include but not be limited to: pre-mortem analysis of Robb Elementary; prevention through threat to life behavioral threat assessment teams; medical response and delayed care; incident command; how often and where/when law enforcement is being shot; RTF and LE response models for rapid casualty evacuation; reunification; and moving beyond response to recovery.

This 8-hour class will satisfy half of the required hours codified in SB 1852. Two options exist for the remaining 8-hours. First, and the most preferable method, is for sheriffs and elected constables to attend in-service classes in their own agencies. By doing so, they can assess their agency's capabilities and limitations, and they can provide onsite leadership for their subordinates. Alternatively, sheriffs and elected constables can obtain 8-hours via ALERRT's e-learning platform. These courses are offered at no charge, and each course is 4-hours long.
